Harvest!

Harvest is now finished at Fuller's Hill Cottages having started on Monday 28th July. There have been a few different varieties of wheat grown on the farm this season; Solstice, and Cordiale are milling varieties that go into the Sainsbury's supply chain via Camgrain. The wheat is used by Sainsbury's to make into loaves of bread, so the next time you pop into Sainsbury's, be sure to purchase a couple of 'Taste The Difference' bread loaves. It may just contain a tiny bit of Jefferies Farming Partners' wheat.

Seed wheat which is also grown, which is processed by seed merchants and distributed across the country for next seasons crops. Finally hard feed wheat which can also be used for human consumption if the quality is good enough, which should be the case this year.

At the moment, the harvest seems to be exceptional, both in terms of yield and quality.
